six innings After he was relieved by Simms, it took the F sluggers just two innings to find the latter and they then proceeded to add three more runs in the ninth to their already comfortable score.

Murcherson, who twirled for F was the star for the day. He kept the hits scattered, walked no one, accepted four chances and collected two hits out of two times at bat.

The sloppy fielding by C Company may have been partly due to the fact that they had been on the range from 4 o'clock a. m. until noon.
